

Low Cost, Quick Turn Around Color

Since our last announcement, we have also fully implemented our Kodak Nexpress, digital color press. This machine gives us “state of the art” capability to run high quality, short run, quick turn around color work. The Nexpress is designed for high volume work and maintains excellent quality throughout a large run. This assures the customer of consistently superior printing from the start, through the middle and all the way to the end of their job. If your agency is currently spending money on color copies, it would benefit you to see the quality work of the Nexpress and let us quote your next job. You’ll see that we are here to provide our government customers superior quality at a better price than you are now paying. The Nexpress also comes with variable data and variable imaging capabilities which allow us to do as little as addressing mail pieces on the fly, to producing more complex printing like targeted flyers with graphics customized to each individual recipient based on data from your supplied database.

Kodak Nexpress with Nexstation front end.

